HANNA'S O', FRS TO COLLEGE 63YS.

Republicans Said to Have Promised Railroad Passes to Many Students.

In Return They Must Go to Their Homes and Cast a Vote for McKinley.

Unusual Campaign Among the Young Men at Yale and Princeton.

IS URGED UPON THEM AS A DUTY.

Told That Bryan Is Not Well Enough Educated to Be Worthy of Election to the Presidency.

Mark Hanna is doing his best to carry his idea of an "educational campaign" into the colleges and universities, where he has reason to think that many of the students are qualified to vote.

For some time agents of the Republican committee have been at work among the students of the larger colleges in the East, and by their methods have aroused considerable indignation among many of the oung men whom they have approached. Not only have there been frequent meetings to which the college men were spe-cially invited, and at which Republican speakers did their best to win voters by their eloquence, but a personal canvass of the students has been made, with the view of discovering whether or not many of them were qualified to register and vote in the college town this Fall.

Bost of the speeches to which the students were invited to listen were specially prepared for their edification, and were so planned as to play upon the vanity of the more thoughtless and lead them to regard themselves as the mental superiors of Bryan and all others who advocate free silver.

Had the methods of the campaign workers gone no further than this, little attention would have been paid to them. men were delegated to visit the students personally, and use all the arguments in deir power to secure their votes for Mckinley. Every student who would prome to vote for Mckinley was offered a rail-bad pass to his home and revera, if he ould make the trip and cast his bailot, his opportunity of a chance to visit teir parents for a day or two, and to have pleasant outling at no cost to themselves, as attractive, and many students, it is id, will avail themselves of it.

Some of Hanna's Benevolence. Vhile these tactics have been pursued in early all the Eastern colleges, they have been especially marked at Princeton, which seems to have an unusually large percentage of students from the "doubtful States." For weeks speakers have been at work in Princeton, rousing a feeling of bitterness against the champions of free sliver. When this work had been well-grounded a register was seen ground.

A Jolly Trip and Nothing to Pay. Students at Princeton are unwilling to talk of the offers made by the Republican committee. They will not admit that they are going to accept passes to go bome and vote, but some say that they would not object to a visit to their parents at that time, and that if they are able to make the trip they will probably at the same time cast a vote. Their interest in the trip to New York is not so great, though many of them say they would have no objection to it, as it would pledge them to nothing and would make "a jolly good trip," with nothing to pay.

IRELAND KEEPS MUM.

Many of His Brother Clergymen Are Open

in Their Advocacy of Bryan's

Cause.

Archbishop Ireland remained in his apartments at the Fifth Avenue Hotel most of resterday. He paid short visits to the Paulist Fathers and other friends, and, in company with Bishop McGoldrick, took a drive about the other drive about the city. He has persistently refused to talk for publication on church matters or the campaign. He realizes, however, that his letter is in opposition to the views of many Catholies who are supporters of Bryan and Sewall, as the leading Catholic papers of the country favor Bryan.

"If a canvass were made of the priests of New York," said a clergyman of one of the downtown churches yesterday, "you would find two-thirds of them in the Bryan column. They study the wants of the people. Their daily life is cast with the masses, and they know that the interests and weffare of their flocks are not seriously guarded by the rich. They know that class legislation means the subtle ensisting of the lansses.

Archbishop Ireiand speaks only as an individual in advocating the election of McKinley. He championed the cause of Blaine and also wrote in favor of Harrison the last Presidential election. Both were decited.

"It's a whale sure!" yelled one, "Pulls like Tammany," shouted another, "No sait barrel about him," put in a fat angler, dropping his own line and making a frantic grab at McDonald's in order to help him pull in the prize. The whole Display of Flowers and Orchids Magnificrowd quickly gathered at McDonald's back in order to take a hand in the fight. It was seventeen men of 150 pounds each against a ten-pound pike. The theory naturally arose that some one had sunk the wheel to conceal the evidence of crime or of flight. At first it was suggested that the wheel belonged to William Darling, who rode away on one after shooting Charles Dunham in the New Market Hotel. A wheel said to be Darling's and so identified by his father was found some time ago in the bushes near South Plainfield.

McDonald is now polishing up his wheel. He says it is the greatest catch ever pulled out of that pond.
